How can we describe the Dult? Well, it’s simply griabig, gmiatlich and gschmackig… This triad of Bavarian adjectives is arguably the best reflection of the fair’s unique atmosphere.

But don’t worry! You don’t need to speak Bavarian to take a stroll through Auer Dult at the foot of the Mariahilfkirche (church), especially if you’re accompanied by one of our official guides. The family fair has a wide range of stalls with books, antiques, crockery and household goods. It’s been held in the district of Au for over 100 years. Our expert guides will take you right into the heart of the market, where you can have a chat with some of the seasoned stand owners. And why not go for a few spins on the historic big wheel before trying some of the local specialities, such as elderberry sparkling wine and Stockwurst. An Guadn!

1) Simply homely, cozy, tasty. 2) special sort of sausage 3) Enjoy!

You can book this tour with München Tourismus, Guided Tours

Information
Email: tourismus.guides@muenchen.de
Telephone: +49 89 233-30204
Tour Times
daily 10 am – 5 pm
Duration
2 hours
Cost
Starting at 151.00 EUR for groups of up to 18 people plus 5.00 EUR p.p. for the food tasting
Dult is Cult!

Stroll, search, see, shop and savour three times a year for nine days at a time – Maidult, Jakobidult and Kirchweihdult are cult in Munich!

This typical Munich market with a fun folk festival is steeped in tradition. In 1796, Elector Karl Theodor granted the suburb of Au the right to hold a fair twice a year. This led to the emergence of the Auer Dult fairs. The oldest of the three fairs, Jakobidult, was mentioned in the city charter as early as 1310 and moved to Marihilfplatz (square) in 1810. The name “tult” or “Dult” was originally translated as “church festival”, but the meaning of the word slowly changed to “fair”. Nowadays, around 300 market sellers and showmen present their goods and festival attractions.

Auer Dult is the largest crockery market in Europe. It’s also the perfect place to stumble upon real treasures hidden amongst the second-hand goods, trinkets and curiosities. The market sellers dotted along Neuheitengasse (novelty alley) offer pure showmanship as they present their kitchen wonders and more. And what’s so special about the outdoor shopping experience at the Dult? Personal advice is included – for free!

A stroll through the fair can be rounded off nicely with a hearty snack under the chestnut trees.

Tip:
Every Tuesday is family day with reduced prices in the showman area

Tip:
Dult fun with the family pass
Family tours of Auer Dult on 27 and 30 July from 11 am to 12.30 pm.
muenchen.de/familienpass

Tip:
Dult fun with the family pass
Family tours of Auer Dult on 26 and 30 July from 11 am to 12.30 pm.
muenchen.de/familienpass

Mariahilf Church informs
Mariahilf Church offers guided church and organ tours during the Auer Dult
A special tip for anyone who wants to have a little break: lunchtime meditation with organ music (Mon-Sat, 12 pm – 12.15 pm)
Infos: www.mariahilf-muenchen.de

Full accessibility in Munich
Information about accessibility for visitors with disabilities in Munich:
www.muenchen-tourismus-barrierefrei.de

Imprint
Publisher
City of Munich
Department of Labour and Economic Affairs, Events
Herzog-Wilhelm-Straße 15, 80331 Munich, Germany
Email: veranstaltungen.rav@muenchen.de
Printing: Senser Druck GmbH, Augsburg; 3.2020/ 5”
Printed on FSC-certified paper (sustainable forestry).
Editors: Dr. Gabriele Papke, Claudia Bauer
Cover Design and Auer Dult-Logo: Cornelia von Seidlein
Photo credits: München Tourismus
Layout: München Tourismus
Translation: Kern AG, Munich